The beams made of old wood are an exceptional decorative material.

They retain the original charm of the old wood and respond at the same time to all modern requirements.

Beams rebuilt in old wood are durable, stable in size, and constitute an environmentally friendly material suitable for internal and external finishes and furniture.

The beams consist of pieces of old wood assembled with a special glue, which can be chosen according to the requirements: interiors, facade or rooms with high temperatures (such as saunas).

Remarques

These products are natural and were made from old or new woods, thus their surface may not be completely homogeneous in terms of color and finish.

This natural effect is a specificity of our products and can not be considered as a base for future claims.
